

AKO NGA KURA ICTPD
MINI CONFERENCE 2008

to be held at The HUB, Clevedon School

THURSDAY 8TH MAY 2008
(First week of Term 2)
9am - 3:30pm

James Nottingham Outstanding Teaching

Target audience: educators of all levels, school leaders and curriculum leaders

Explore how to teach outstanding lessons so that all learners can be successful throughout their life.

This interactive workshop is based on James Nottingham's award-winning Work supporting educators across the world, and will include:

- Challenging all students including the gifted and talented;
- Developing resilience, independence and self-esteem in all students;
- Techniques to ensure understanding is meaningful and long-lasting;
- Proven strategies for enhancing communication skills.

You will leave this course with a repertoire of practical strategies, hints and techniques, all of which can be readily applied in any classroom to create a culture of learning in which all learners not only survive but thrive!

ooo000ooo

James Nottingham has broad experience of team learning and leadership development, is one of the UK's leading practitioners in the direct teaching of thinking and is a sought-after keynote speaker, writer and trainer. He qualified as a teacher and, as head of department, led the development of the direct teaching of thinking across the curriculum. This significant work became an integral part of the new National Curriculum in England and Wales.

In 2005 James collected an award in recognition of the outstanding contribution the project had made to the raising of young people's aspirations, enterprising attitudes and achievements.

Since then, James has founded his own company, Sustained Success, an organisation concerned with achieving long-lasting success within organisations. Sustained Success also promotes and coordinates the international network of Community Designed Schools, a scheme that has been used to create award-winning schools in the UK, Norway, New Zealand, USA and Australia. It is based on complete respect for the lived lives of school staff and encourages every stakeholder within the community to contribute to the creation of a dream school that every student wishes to attend.

Comments from New Zealand educators on James Nottingham's sessions at the 13th International Conference on Thinking in Norkopping, Sweden, June 2007 include:

"That was a VERY powerful presentation that has challenged my mental models as well as extended my understanding of challenge."
PC, Teacher, New Zealand

"Superb, James. By far the best presentation I have seen.
I would love more of my teachers to hear your message."
SC. Principal. New Zealand

Visit James's website:
<http://www.sustained-success.com/>
For more information and testimonials